From the AUSTRALIAN STATISTICIAN

THE AUSTRALIAN BUREAU OF STATISTICS (ABS) is committed to increasing access to Australia's wealth of statistical information. We do this by delivering timely, relevant and accurate statistical information, the use of which contributes to informed decision-making, research and discussion within governments, businesses and Australian and international communities.

Our website presents ABS data free of charge, and is supported by a telephone inquiry service to assist our customers in accessing our data. More complex data requirements are met through customised data consultancy and microdata access services that provide expert assistance on a cost-recovery basis. We are also contributing to the National Statistical System through our involvement in initiatives such as the National Data Network which provides a distributed library of data holdings relevant to policy analysis and research, and the standardised business reporting program designed to reduce the load on providers of information to governments.

This Charter outlines our commitment to providing a quality customer service, specifying what you can expect when you approach us for statistical or other information through any of our service channels.

The ABS seeks to continually improve our customer service, and would appreciate your feedback on the service you receive generally, and on the standards identified in this Charter in particular.

We recognise and greatly appreciate the support of the individuals and organisations who contribute to the ongoing wealth of statistical information about our nation by participating in ABS surveys. It is only with your assistance that the ABS can continue to produce the statistics that contribute to quality informed decision making.

WHO WE ARE

Established as the Commonwealth Bureau of Census and Statistics, with the passing of the Census and Statistics Act 1905, the ABS is Australia's official national statistical agency. Changing name to the 'Australian Bureau of Statistics' in 1975 with the passing of the Australian Bureau of Statistics Act 1975, the ABS is an agency under the Treasury portfolio. The Minister with portfolio responsibility for the ABS is the Assistant Treasurer.

As an organisation, we remain relevant to national, state and territory needs by collecting the relevant data, processing it to world-leading standards and delivering information solutions to our many customers. To address statistical needs, we make every effort to minimise the obligations on the Australian community by using existing data wherever possible to satisfy needs and sophisticated statistical methodologies to reduce the load on our respondents.

Our Mission

We assist and encourage informed decision-making, research and discussion within governments and the community, by leading a high quality, objective and responsive national statistical service.

WHAT WE DO

The ABS provides statistics on a wide range of economic, industry, environment and energy, people and regional matters, covering government, business and the community in general. We also have an important leadership and coordination function with respect to the statistical activities of other official bodies, both in Australia and overseas.

ABS' statistical priorities are determined through our key advisory body, the Australian Statistics Advisory Council (ASAC). ASAC provides guidance on the directions and priorities of the ABS work program to the Minister and ABS. The ABS also consults extensively on statistical priorities with key users of statistics. Consultation takes place through ABS-organised user groups, covering needs for data on new or emerging topics and modifications to existing collections. While we recognise that it is impossible to satisfy all user demands, we seek to react positively and responsibly to the demonstrated needs of users, at the same time remaining conscious of the constraints on public spending and on the workload placed on the individuals and organisations providing information for our collections.

OUR CUSTOMERS

Users of statistics come from many sectors of the Australian community, including:

- Australian, State and Territory, and Local Governments;
- Private enterprise, including small business;
- Academics, students and teachers;
- Researchers and librarians;
- Media;
- Not-for-profit organisations; and
- The Australian community.

Overseas statistical users also access our website and consultancy services.

OUR COMMITMENT

ABS Values - what we believe and how we behave

As an Australian Public Service (APS) agency, ABS employees abide by the APS values. In addition, we hold the following values that are material to our role as an independent provider of information for Australia: integrity, relevance, service, access for all, professionalism and trust of providers.
