Australian Bureau of Statistics

The Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) is the central statistical authority for Australia and provides statistical information to government, industry and the general community to assist and encourage informed decision-making and discussion. The ABS conducts a wide range of surveys and censuses touching almost every aspect of the Australian economy and society and releases over 1,500 publications annually. Information is also available on floppy disks and on CD-ROM.

Statpaks

This is the fourth issue of the Queensland ABS School Kits which are now nationally called Statpaks. Statpaks cater for the needs of Mathematics teachers and for librarians as well as teachers and students of Economics, Home Economics and Geography.

Time, money and effort can be saved by having the statistical material which students need for practical analysis readily accessible in your school library. Teachers in country schools who have difficulty in accessing libraries will find this an especially valuable benefit. Extended time series data can be provided as a special data service on floppy disk or hard copy; see page 13: Historical Data from PC Ausstats.

Discounts

Discounts apply to almost all priced publications included in the Statpaks. An added bonus when you acquire a Statpak is the opportunity to include and also obtain at discount prices, other publications selected by you. This will allow flexibility for individual school courses.

Surviving Statistics: A User's Guide to the Basics (Catalogue No. 1332.0; 1992 issue; 92 pages).

Developed for junior and senior high school students, this easy-to-read publication offers clear explanations of statistical concepts; introduction to the Consumer Price Index; case studies of how government and business use statistics; and detailed class exercises including solutions.

Statistics - A Powerful Edge! (Catalogue No. 1331.0; 1994 issue; 252 pages).

This publication is designed for students in Years 9 to 12 and assists students to understand statistics. It is divided into 4 sections with a Stats maths section covering sampling methods, organisation of data, display of data, cumulative frequency and percentages, measures of central tendency and measures of dispersion. (See Electronic Data on floppy disk for details of the floppy disk produced as an adjunct to this book).

An Introduction to Sample Surveys: A User's Guide (Catalogue No. 1202.2; 1988 issue; 90 pages).

Intended as a basic guide on the use of sample surveys, for the purpose of conducting all types of research. Topics covered include data collection methods, questionnaire design, sources of error, survey testing, survey management, data collection and processing, analysis and presentation of results.

A Guide to Interpreting Time Series — Monitoring 'Trends', An Overview (Catalogue No. 1348.0; 1993 issue; 8 pages).

An information paper which briefly explains trend analysis as distinct from original or seasonally adjusted analysis, and indicates how trend estimates may be used more effectively for informed decision making. Guidelines are also provided for interpreting the most recent trend estimates.

1991 Census — How Australia Takes a Census (Catalogue No. 2903.0; 1991 issue; 55 pages).

Provides basic information about the way the 1991 Census was planned and designed and about how it was conducted. From this, a better understanding of the nature of census statistics will be obtained.

Basic Community Profile, Queensland (Catalogue No. 2722.3; 1991 issue; 22 pages).

The Community Profile contains census data for Queensland with sets of tables containing key census characteristics of persons, families and dwellings, covering most topics on the census form. The community profiles are available for any suburb or local government area in Australia.

Optional Extras for the Mathematics Statpak

Teachers have expressed an interest in resource material which is suitable for the application of concepts and manipulation of data. Those who purchase the 1995 Mathematics Statpak may also select publications to suit their individual needs, most of which are at a 30% discount.

The geographical area/s of your choice (e.g. suburb, postcode, local government area, etc.) on software which allows you to display and manipulate data, with a menu-driven user interface. The profile software enables you to display 57 tables of a community profile; print community profiles; export community profile data to other applications such as spreadsheet, graphics, database and mapping packages; aggregate regions to define community profiles; rank and sort by geographic characteristics. This software requires an IBM compatible machine with a hard disk, and Microsoft MS-DOS version 3.1 or later.

Catalogue of Electronic Products (Catalogue No. 1111.0; 1993 issue; 56 pages).

This catalogue gives a more detailed description of what the ABS has to offer in the form of electronic products (eg. floppy disk, CD-ROM and electronic mail). Floppy disks, magnetic tapes and microfiche are grouped under subject headings.

Historical Data from PC Ausstats (Special Data Service; Price varies depending on the specifics of request, minimum charge $40.00).

Choose an economic or social topic for which you require an extended time series. Historical information is typically available for a 15 year period – and this includes monthly, quarterly, half yearly and yearly series.

Age and Sex Distribution of Estimated Resident Population, Queensland — Data on Floppy Disk (Catalogue No. 3217.3; Annual; 2 pp + 1 Floppy Disk; RRP $100.00; Discount Price $70.00)

The floppy disk contains the age and sex distribution of estimated resident population at 30 June for each year commencing 1991 for statistical divisions, selected statistical subdivisions, statistical districts, statistical local areas and legal local government areas. An information sheet containing explanatory notes is also provided.

Statistics — A Powerful Edge! Datasets on Floppy Disk (Catalogue No. 1331.0; School Price $50.00).

The floppy disk which contains 194 tables has been produced as an adjunct to the book. It contains datasets for use in classroom exercises. The datasets include information from the 1991 Census of Population and Housing by capital cities, States and Territories and Australia. The disk is available for IBM or Apple Mac in whatever software you require (Works, Excel, Lotus 1,2,3). It will be supplied with hard copy of the Australian datasets together with classroom exercises.

Foreign Trade Data (Special Data Service; Price varies with the amount of data; RRP minimum charge $34.60; Discount minimum charge $24.20).

Enables you to select a specific commodity which is either imported into or exported from Australia. Statistics are available for quantity and value of commodities for all or selected countries/States. (Also available in hardcopy.)

1991 Census — Data on Floppy Disk (Price varies depending on products selected. Statpak discount applies to standardised products.)

With the information from the 1991 Census of Population and Housing on floppy disk you have easy access to summary tables of most census topics for standard areas or aggregations to meet your needs. Standard areas include statistical local areas, legal local government areas, urban centres, postcodes, Commonwealth electoral divisions and statistical districts. Data to suit your needs are also available as a customised service. The data are presented in the form of standard small area summary tables covering a large selection of census topics from age, sex, income and birthplace to family type, employment, dwelling type, rental and mortgage payments and more.

Orders should specify: The areas for which the data are required and Diskette size and density to suit your machine.
